according to a 2010 study published in the journal of diabetes and its complications, pumpkins seeds can have a positive impact on diabetes the cells were lysed in 0.5 n naoh, and incorporated 3hthymidine was measured by a liquid scintillation counter and presented as percentage of control.