commissioning of the plant took place just over two years later in early 2013.

families, investing in their young children’s early education in a way that likely wasn’t