the results of the study indicated to the researchers that being exposed to the prescription drugs was a factor in abuse, but not the most important one